During Fire Prevention Week, the fire department taught the students what to do during a fire in their house. One of the fireman put on his protective suit. He taught the students to not be afraid of the suit. It was not a monster but a person inside the suit that protects him during a fire. The students practiced what to do if there is smoke in a house. They are to crawl and stay close to the floor. All the students got to hold the fire hose with water spraying out. They were taught the parts of the fire truck and other emergency vehicles.

Your child is worth it.
